Join us for an engaging and informative PEP Talk all about

What's on Your Plate: The Story Behind What We Eat

Thursday, November 5th | 5:30 to 7:30 pm
1450 Rollins Road, Burlingame CA 94010

Join Isabelle Cnudde, founder of Clorofil, for a thoughtful look at where our food comes from and what “humane” and “sustainable” really mean when it comes to animal agriculture.

Learn about our food system and the animals we eat. Let's look at the commercial beef, pork, chicken, and fish industries. We will discuss food labeling and welfare, as well as the current relevant legislation and policies. While exploring the environmental, social, and health impacts of industrial farming, we will try to answer the question: Can animal agriculture ever be humane and sustainable?

Designed for adults, this talk offers an informative, open-minded opportunity to learn more about our food system, ask questions, and consider the complex relationship between animals, agriculture, and the choices we make as consumers. We'll wrap up the evening with a vegan cheese tasting, giving everyone a chance to sample a few delicious plant-based dairy alternatives.
